RENAISSANCE 2011

THE BOOM, THE BAP AND THE LUCK

From day one, blocSonic has been about shining the light on the best of what the world of netaudio has to offer... BADLUCK's Renaissance 2011 is no different. It's some of that real & raw NYC, boom-bap hip-hop!

BADLUCK made his blocSonic debut back in 2009 as one half of Luck & Ripps. Back then, with their great release The Catastrophic Connection (Produced by Uh-Oh Productions, then known as Catastrophe), you were introduced to their fusion of the classic boom-bap sound with a modern edge. Consider Renaissance 2011 a continuation of that aesthetic with a bit of a rawer vibe.

This is straight up NEW YORK hip-hop for true heads. Don't sleep.

Peace

P.S. - I hear that Luck & Ripps may be returning in 2012.

A WORD FROM LUCK

See, the problem actually is the fact that this art form, we with poetic license call HIP HOP, went from something "DOPE & FRESH" to that which is now "KRACK" & "FLY" in comparison. However good modern day rap may be, that vintage flavor doesn't seem to be included in the recipe of most of these artists. With that said, wouldn't it only be right to merge both the past and present through witty writing? It's only right that 13aDLucK present to you Renaissance 2011, an inventory of poetic art dedicated to the preservation of DOPE infused FRESHNESS every modern day FLY kat can relate to and everyone from the ol' school must respect. Although short of vocal features, Renaissance 2011 is comprised of beautiful production from long time friend and producer DJ Disorder/Nacho Beats, Addlib, T. Porter, SeisMcWaves and the familiar sounds of UH-OH PRODUCTIONS, Mixed by the MUNI management team (POWDA P, 13ADLUCK). For a brother who doesn't speak much, Renaissance 2011 is definitely a mouthful. Take your fill, enjoy.

SINCERELY,
13.LucK
